

SLEEPER

GLOBAL HOTEL DESIGN

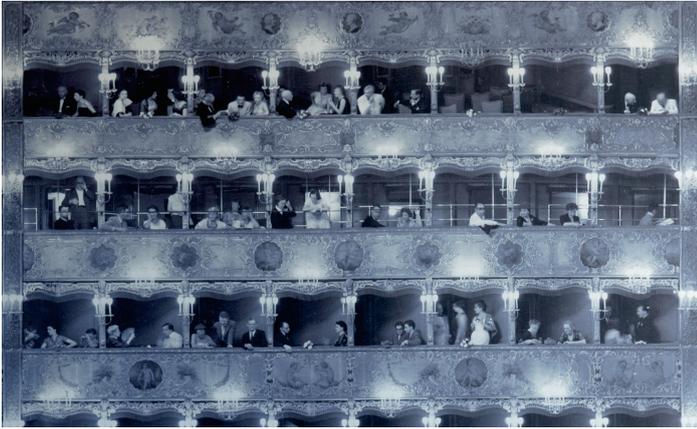

SEPTEMBER | OCTOBER 2017

Four Seasons Hotel at The Surf Club
Richard Meier and Joseph Dirand revive a Miami institution

The Whitby
Kit Kemp waxes lyrical at Firmdale's latest opening in Midtown Manhattan

Chablé Resort & Spa
Ancient Mayan traditions meet modern-day
luxury on Mexico's Yucatán Peninsula

TROVE*Fuoco

Based on a historic photograph of Teatro La Fenice – the famed Venice opera house destroyed twice by fire – Trove’s Fuoco wallpaper seeks to address the concept of spectatorship through its intricate design. With a pattern comprising an audience looking outward, Fuoco invites guests to join the collective gaze through a repeating motif available in five sepia tones.

www.troveline.com

PIET BOON*Piet Boon Collection

Launched at Salone del Mobile, Piet Boon’s self-titled collection takes inspiration from the brand’s own hand-shaped Klink sidetable, applying its pastel tones and signature contour to the Ella sofas, Olle and Ode tables and Luna lighting object. Featuring hand-shaped bronze elements, floating layers and rounded profiles, the collection demonstrates the brand’s focus on unusual shapes and forms.

www.pietboon.com

ELSTEAD LIGHTING*Arabella

Comprising three pendant sizes that can all be converted to semi-flush fittings, and available in gold or silver leaf finishes, Elstead Lighting’s Arabella collection features half moon, ceiling, table and sconce models. With its distressed gold metal exterior and cream linen fabric shade, Arabella brings opulence and luxury to interior schemes, and incorporates a glass diffuser to soften the light.

www.elsteadlighting.com